Author's Notes:
I thought that a drabble of my Bunny-saga would be nice. Enjoy!

„You absolutely must behave," Jason severely said, lifting his forefinger. "And always use your litter box, nothing else. This isn't our house, we're just guests. Did I make myself clear?"

Jason's four favorite bunnies adoringly looked up at him. One of them crinkled its nose.

Jason had brought them with him by moving into James' house while an offended Kirk moved into Lars' house, taking nine of ten bunnies of the former Hetfield-Hammett household with him, adding them to Lars' not-castrated bunny-bunch.

All of a sudden soft lips touched Jason's neck.

"Now it's your house, too," James whispered. "Nothing else."
